

Dr Tamás Molnár (PhD) works as a legal research officer in the Asylum, Migration and Borders Sector of the EU Fundamental Rights Agency's Freedoms and Justice Department. He studied law in Budapest (dr.jur.) and Brussels (LLM on EU law), and holds a PhD in international law (Budapest). His areas of expertise with respect to the FRA's work include: fundamental rights of irregular migrants; return and readmission of irregular migrants, including detention; anti-smuggling; EU asylum acquis and visa policy; statelessness as well as horizontal issues of public international law. Before joining the Agency in autumn 2016, he worked for a decade in various ministries in Hungary in the fields of international and EU migration law and their domestic implementation (drafting legislation). He was also in charge of drafting the Hungarian statelessness determination procedure. He has also undertaken ad hoc consultancies for UNHCR on statelessness issues (2010 -2016) and for ICMPD on readmission (2013-2014). During the Hungarian Presidency of the EU Council in 2011, he was the chair of the Migration-Expulsion Working Party and the deputy chair of the Strategic Committee on Immigration, Frontiers and Asylum (SCIFA). In addition, he has been a part-time adjunct professor of international law and EU migration law at the Corvinus University of Budapest, in the Institute of International Studies. He has published widely in the fields of international law, EU migration and asylum law, and on the legal aspects of statelessness, with over 60 journal articles, book chapters and a monograph.
